Title: Short-Term Professional Development Programme on Design and Development of SLMs for Distance and Online Learning (Batch 2, F2F Mode)

Coordinator: Dr. Ali Asgar, Prof. C.R.K Murthy & Dr. Tata Ramakrishna

Dates: 25th July to 1st August, 2022

Introduction

Distance Education succeeded Correspondence Education long time back because of its innovative multi-media approach, demands and growing expectations of the people across the globe. It caters to the educational needs of a large gamut of learners who are deprived to receive education due to some or other reasons. A few reasons for increasing acceptance of distance education include geographical barriers, financial factors, cultural issues, family and professional responsibilities, etc.

Indira Gandhi National Open University (IGNOU) as a mega open central university in India has one of the important objectives out of many to provide education to all sections and categories of people to fulfil their educational demands irrespective of sex, religion, and age. It offers more than 200 courses across the globe having 67 Regional Centres (RCs) and more than 2000 Study Centres (SCs) and headquarter at Maidan Garhi, New Delhi. The university provides its learners various academic and administrative support services including supply of self-learning print materials (SLMs), Interactive Radio Counseling and Teleconferencing etc. It prepares its SLMs in robust manner and recognized as a premier open university of the world because of its quality study materials and technological support to its students. IGNOU is not limited with the above functions and it has other dominant and striking functions too for the upliftment of educational standard of common people in the country.

Amid the expanding functions of IGNOU, around 70 new faculty members have joined the university recently. These newly joined teachers are expected to know various functions of Divisions and Schools of the University. Further they need to get acquainted with the system, identify their role for smooth running of academic programmes and achieving the IGNOU objectives. To make familiar and orient the newly joined teachers with all these issues, STRIDE had organized Induction-cum-Orientation Programmes to all new faculty in three different batches between September to November 2021.

After the inducting the newly joined teachers into the ODL system through Induction Programme, in First Series of Capacity Building initiative, it was the time to involve them in advanced and specialized workshops on Design and Development of Self-learning Materials for Distance and Online Learning; which have been core media in the instructional system of IGNOU. Therefore, training on design and development of SLM were planned to be organised in three batches, and this was the second batch of trainees who were trained in the area of design and development of SLM and oriented to tackle related issues.

Objectives

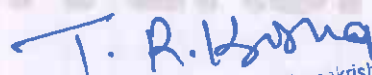

The objectives of the proposed workshop were to:

- explain the role of Self-Learning Print Materials and Online Courseware in the context of IGNOU;
- describe the steps involved in development of a SLM unit and integration of technology;
- prepare teachers to develop a unit of SLM and present it for peer and expert comments and modify the same based on suggestions;
- analyze issues involved in design, development and revision of courses/programmes at IGNOU;
- discuss the interrelation and collaboration between various divisions and schools of IGNOU focusing on design, development of learning materials and distribution; and
- identify the major challenges and develop the techniques to overcome those challenges in IGNOU context particularly in design and development of course ware.

Target Group

22 Newly joined teachers from various disciplines/schools of IGNOU headquarters participated in the 06-days STP.
