

A Report on Online Training Workshop for Faculty of SOS on using Web Counselling Tools

NCIDE conducted a series of Online Training sessions on Web Counselling Tools for the faculty of School of Sciences (SOS) on 12th May, 20th May, 21st May and 27th May 2020. The main objective of the online training sessions was to train the faculty for providing web-based video counselling sessions using various kind of tools like YouTube and OBS.

The participants were given a demonstration on how they can create a YouTube channel and use it for conducting online live sessions for distance learners. The first online training session conducted on 12th May, 2020 was followed by group wise personalised and hands-on oriented online training sessions on innovative ways of using Advance Live Video Streaming tools held on 20th May, 2020 at 11.30 am and 21st may, 2020 at 4.30 pm.

As an output of the training sessions a few faculty developed sample videos also. These online training sessions were followed by a Troubleshooting session held on 27th May, 2020. A manual was also provided to all the participants of the session to facilitate them in handling web counselling sessions and video recordings. The training programme was coordinated by Dr. Jyotsna Dikshit, Deputy Director and Dr. Sujata Santosh, Assistant Director, NCIDE.
