Online Training Workshop on Use of ICT Tools for Interactive Web Based Video Counselling for Distance Education

NCIDE conducted an online training workshop on the use of Interactive Web Counselling tools for the Mathematics Faculty of the School of Sciences on 24th April, 2020. The main objective of the workshop was to enable the faculty to use various easily available ICT tools for creating events for the students and organising interactive web-based video counselling sessions which presentation, and demonstration activities.

Initially, the session started with a brainstorming on the various freely available tools. This was followed by demonstration of tools to create event and hold web counselling sessions.
